

This Week in Health Tech

HISstalk's 5 Top Stories in 60 Seconds

August 27, 2025

#1 Epic UGM Doesn't Disappoint

What Happened:

Epic makes numerous AI product announcements at UGM.

Why It Matters:

Epic's focus on new AI-enhanced solutions at its recent user group meeting leaves end users feeling optimistic and competitors and add-on vendors doubling down on their own AI efforts.

#2 Oracle Health Customers Aren't Happy

What Happened:

KLAS Research analyzes customer satisfaction with Oracle Health.

Why It Matters:

The KLAS analysis, which focuses on customer satisfaction since the Oracle acquisition, reveals a lack of confidence in the company and its products.

#3 CareCloud Acquires Medsphere

What Happened:

Ambulatory-focused health IT vendor CareCloud acquires Medsphere.

Why It Matters:

The acquisition will give CareCloud a foothold in the rural and small hospital IT market.

#4 EliseAI Raises $250 Million

What Happened:

EliseAI raises $250 million in a Series E round of funding.

Why It Matters:

The new funding gives the company, which got its start in AI for real estate, more momentum to focus on healthcare.

#5 Assort Health Announces Series B

What Happened:

Assort Health raises $50 million in Series B funding.

Why It Matters:

The company, which helps providers automate processes using AI voice agents, is now valued at $750 million.

What's Your Take?

Follow for more weekly news recaps.

Read HlStalk for details and breaking news.

Brought to you by AGS Health, which supports independent health tech journalism.

