

This Week in Health Tech

HISstalk's 5 Top Stories in 60 Seconds

March 11, 2026

#1 Online Therapy Becomes Hot Commodity

What Happened:

UHS acquires Talkspace, while Grow Therapy raises $150 million.

Why It Matters:

Universal Health Services' $835 million acquisition of Talkspace, coupled with Grow Therapy's recent $150 million in new funding highlights an undeniable uptick in the value investors see in online therapy services.

#2 Nitra Announces $187 Million in Funding

What Happened:

Practice operations software startup Nitra raises $187 million.

Why It Matters:

The company's funding news highlights the fact investors are paying attention to the role AI-powered software can play in making back-office tasks and operational workflows more efficient.

#3 Amazon Expands Healthcare AI Capabilities

What Happened:

Amazon launches Health Connect and expands its Health AI tool.

Why It Matters:

Amazon is expanding its healthcare AI offerings with the AWS launch of Amazon Health Connect, an EHR-integrated agentic AI healthcare operations solution, and the expansion of its Health AI assistant to its website and app.

#4 Elsevier Acquires Mytonomy

What Happened:

Elsevier acquires patient engagement and education company Mytonomy.

Why It Matters:

Elsevier will incorporate Mytonomy's video-based offerings into its Clinical Solutions business, which includes ClinicalKey AI, ClinicalSkills, and PatientPass.

#5 Epic Expands AI Roadmap

What Happened:

Epic expands its AI roadmap.

Why It Matters:

The company plans to offer several new AI capabilities in the coming months, including a new family of AI models that can help predict the next steps in a patient's journey.

What's Your Take?

Follow for more weekly news recaps.

Read HlStalk for details and breaking news.

Brought to you by Medicomp Systems, which supports independent health tech journalism.

